

~~Abstract~~

Abstract of The Disclosure

A method for transmitting information between a data provider and data users ~~is described~~ in which the data users 5 may be different with regard to their data processing capabilities. An interface is provided between the data provider and the data user, via which the data is adapted to the respective data processing capabilities of the data users. Corresponding terminal devices transmit information 10 concerning the terminal device's data processing capabilities with the request for data.

~~Figure 2~~

272405